

There are many reasons that companies outsource various jobs, but the most prominent advantage seems to be the fact that it often saves money. Outsourcing also allows companies to focus on other business issues while having the details taken care of by outside experts. This means that a large amount of resources and attention, which might fall on the shoulders of management professionals, can be used for more important, broader issues within the company. Our offshore outsourcing services, based in Sri Lanka, will help to enable and empower your business.

Ceynocta's BPO model includes short-term or long-term projects with partial or complete services, business analysis and specifications design, coding, testing and quality assurance, maintenance of systems developed by us or any other party and subcontracting services.
